Join the Happiness

OBJECTIVE

We created this Sustainability Development Report in order to effectively communicate our sustainability strategy to all of our internal and external stakeholders. This guide contains information on how we understand sustainability issues, how we respond to them, and how we manage sustainability. We have included brief but comprehensive information on global trends that will shed light on our achievements.

TOP MANAGEMENT'S PROMISE

Dear Guests, Business Partners, and Employees,

Since our inception, Voyage Torba and Private Hotel has consistently provided an understanding of quality, high guest satisfaction, and brand awareness. We are fully committed our "sustainable world and tourism" growth targets. We have embraced renewal and development not only to keep pace with global trends, but also as a requirement for our natural growth and the genuine excitement that comes from within us to innovate and flourish.

Today, we are witnessing a process in which many new expectations have emerged in the global tourism sector, ranging from environmental concerns to business and social needs. This process demonstrates the importance of responsible and sustainable tourism, which we showcase at Voyage Torba and Private Hotel and are therefore reflected in our corporate values. We focus on effectively managing sustainability risks and ensuring sustainable growth through long-term strategies with the goal of increasing our successes day by day. We would like to express our heartfelt gratitude to our valued employees, business partners, and guests who have always trusted in our understanding of quality service which has allowed Voyage Hotels to achieve our current status.

YILMAZ ÖZTÜRK

Voyage Torba and Private Hotel's General Manager.

FIVE BASIC ELEMENTS OF LIFE

The five elements, according to East Asian philosophy, represent the five most basic components of the universe. The five elements of earth, fire, water, wood, and metal are imaginative expressions of the cycles, transformations, and processes they represent. These five elements provide interpretations for the human body, physical and mental health, and harmony between nature, matter, and the universe.

The Yin and Yang theory teaches that achieving a balance in the cycle of production and consumption between the five elements allows for natural healing. As a result, maintaining balance and repairing it when it is disrupted is critical to the continuation of life.

Based on our vision of becoming the future leader of the hospitality industry, our top priority is to protect and restore the natural space where our facility is located, as well as to enable a sustainable life and business through the value-added projects we develop, in order to leave a more livable world for future generations.

Earth is the element that instills confidence, promotes fertility through growth and development, and represents stability and value creation,

Fire represents passion, dedication, success, and expansion,

Water is one of the elements with the highest adaptability representing both movement and transformation.

Trees represent life, vitality, development, and growth, and

Metal is the element that represents endurance, agility, leadership, and justice.

SCOPE

Sustainable Development is a universal model that includes the goals that United Nations member countries hope to achieve by the end of 2030. The model's 17 defined goals include all of the goals that Voyage Torba and Private Hotel will achieve.

THE GLOBAL GOALS For Sustainable Development

DEFINITIONS

Sustainability: Sustainability is the use of resources in an environmentally sensitive, socially just, and economically beneficial manner that meets the needs of current users without jeopardising their use by future generations.

Sustainability Management System: A management system (a collection of interconnected elements) for developing a sustainability policy, objectives, and processes that help to achieve these goals.

Sustainable Tourism: Sustainable tourism is defined as taking into account all current and future economic, social, and environmental impacts while also meeting the needs of visitors, industry, the environment, and host communities. Sustainable tourism should make the best use of environmental resources, which are fundamental to tourism development, by sustaining essential ecological processes and helping to conserve natural heritage and biodiversity, respect the sociocultural authenticity of host communities, protect their built and living cultural heritage and traditional values, contribute to intercultural understanding and tolerance, and provide favourable, long-term economic transactions.

PRACTICE

As Voyage Torba and Private Hotel, we want sustainability to be the goal and passion of all our colleagues, not just one or a few departments. We understand that we can only achieve our sustainability objectives if different specialities collaborate.

As a result, we believe it is critical for all of our colleagues to be sustainability literate, to internalise sustainability, to use a common language when integrating sustainability issues into business strategies as Voyage Torba Private employees, and, ultimately, to contribute around a common vision, set of values, and goals.

Voyage Torba Private, where the blue of the sea and the greens of nature blend harmoniously, welcomes both families with young children and couples with our targeted special services.

Our primary goal as Voyage Torba and Private Hotel is to ensure that the report we have presented to all of our colleagues and external stakeholders is useful in creating a better future.

With its privileged services and exquisite flavours, the resort provides a dream holiday for those who enjoy spending time in nature. By combining Voyage's hospitality with the exquisite nature of Torba, it pushes the boundaries of perfect service.

Aspects of Sustainability

Economic

To ensure long-term viability, businesses must generate economic value for themselves and their stakeholders. Businesses that do not make a profit, cannot pay their employees, cannot make regular payments to their suppliers, and cannot satisfy their customers and therefore will fail to survive. As a result, the economic dimension of sustainability is fundamentally linked to an organisation's ability to generate long-term economic value.

Social

Businesses are a reflection of the society in which they operate. Enterprise development is dependent on the development of the society in which they operate. As a result, businesses should be expected to contribute to the development of society as a whole, including their own employees (education, entrepreneurship, aid, etc.), as well as working to reduce inequalities.

Environmental

Natural resources are required by businesses to produce and provide goods and services. However, natural resources are limited. The loss of natural balances have had an impact on the availability of renewable resources. Businesses should reduce resource consumption in tandem with working to mitigate other factors with negative environmental impacts.

Governance

Successful and sustainable businesses should prioritise stakeholder participation in decision-making, practise transparency and accountability, be fair and consistent with their stakeholders, and maintain and build an infrastructure to ensure corporate trust.

Our Sustainability Strategy

Where We Are Now: Situational Assessment

This step entails conducting a situation assessment and prioritisation analysis that takes into account sustainability practices in each organisational unit, stakeholder expectations, and local and global trends. Voyage Torba Private monitors all national and international risks using the Sustainability Risk Analysis Table and creates opportunities based on identified trends.

Where We Want To Be: Vision

This step determines where and how the company wants to position itself in terms of sustainability issues that are prioritised for the company in the medium and long term and then presented to stakeholders. At this point, Voyage Torba Private has determined its Sustainability Focal Points and has communicated them to stakeholders using the tables on the following pages. We continue to conduct sustainability activities through the identified focal points.
